

BARNSTONEWORTH UTD FC

Round 7 Newsletter

According to the new Rough Guide to England, the image of a genteel country awash with Englishmen politely tipping their bowler hats, groping through the London fog & being kinder to pets than kids is now gone (Duh). It's now described as an irritating & insular country full of overweight, binge-drinking, reality TV addicts who love nothing better than a cup of tea, a bag of chips & forming an orderly queue (for planes heading to Oz). And? Anyway back to the football, a fine clean sweep for the Barny army again particularly from the injury ravaged A's while the SPL winds up with Celtic & Rangers neck & neck (!) & its the Champions League final between Chelsea & Man Utd - so staying neutral "Blue is the colour, football is the game, we're all together & winning is our aim". Very sad though it could also apply to NSW with the State of Origin tonight!

Training

Cancelled due to State of Origin (subject to individual team arrangements) so no Gazza Shuttleruns. However the C's and D's may be going for a run round Duffy's late on Thursday.

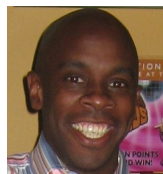

Also in the news

This week scientists revealed they had deciphered the DNA of Lee, a NSW Platypus, described as one of the oddest creatures on earth. "they're a weird mish-mash of the bill of a duck, the eyes of a mole, the eggs of a lizard and the tail of a beaver" they said (reminiscent of the C's against East Gosford last week) The platypus is part Avian, Mammal and Reptile with acute sight (useful for watching the footie) but only open their eyes above water. This one was spotted wearing poo brown crocs last week. Amazing.

Welcome back!
(& Man of the Match)

A's Match Report

The injury plagued A's all battled well to a 3-0 win aided by a fine early penalty save from Darren, a brace of goals from Zimmo & a classy header from the man of the match Ashley who apparently run his socks off up front. I hear Andy & Ricky combined well on the left as did Gordy & Trev on the right while Nic & Neal the scouts are looking!

C's Match Report

A fine goal from Andy "slotted clinically into the the corner" and "a 750 yard mazy run gliding past 57 players and unleashing an exocet" from Neal capped a fine 2-1 win as the C's returned to form after last weeks blip. A good all round performance with Andy "won it by a landslide" Stuart as man of the match !

D's Match Report

Another cross bar & 3 goals from Cap'n Nigel plus 1st goals of the season from George & Kevin gave our weakened side a tough 5-3 win against a physical Avoca side. Our thanks to Neal for reffing (& a penalty?) & great to see the ever young Mark Butler back who was deserved Man of the Match
